As a Mentor at CAPS Academy — the first SDET training institution in Azerbaijan — I support the development of future software professionals through practical guidance and a curriculum grounded in Java and software testing principles. The academy's hybrid learning model promotes flexibility and accessibility for learners from diverse backgrounds. As Co-Founder of Veezet, I specialize in building scalable and efficient back-end web solutions. I lead collaborative initiatives that prioritize clean architecture, performance, and user-centric design. As the Founder of CVERA, I focus on delivering dynamic and responsive web experiences using Next.js. My role has evolved from hands-on development to leading project management, where I've driven the growth of the platform through structured workflows, cross-functional coordination, and a strong emphasis on quality and innovation.
